THE MAN WITH A PLAN.

The Other Passengers Distracted Him, but His Scheme Worked.

There were five of us in the stage, and a sixth man had a seat with the driver. There was a second lieutenant of cavalry, a civil engineer, and the rest of us were only common folks who had been out in the hills prospecting and were returning broken in homes and "busted" in pocket. The engineer was a little man of feminine appearance, and we hadn't been together an hour when he confessed that the bare thoughts of the stage being held up made him tremble all over. The officer was a quiet sort of chap, who seemed to have plenty of nerve, and though none of us had much to lose, we by and agreed that in case the stage was stopped we would make a fight for it. All were new to a hold up, but we decided that if we had any show at all we could make it hot for the road agents.

The little man at first agreed with our plan as formed, but later on he broached one of his own. The driver told us that the point most likely to be selected by the highwaymen would be at a rough spot in the road, just before it reached a certain hill, and we were about five miles from the spot, and darkness had fully descended when the little man unfolded his plan. When within a mile of the spot he was to get out and follow the stage on foot. In case it was stopped he would be in position to sight the robbers and open fire at once.

We jumped on him at once for a flunk it was simply a scheme on his part to bolt and save his dollars in case the agents appeared, and each one gave him his opinion of such conduct in very vigorous English. In his soft, gentle way he replied:

"Gentlemen, you do me injustice. Please suspend judgment until you see how my plan works. I do assure you that I firmly expect to kill a robber and save the stage."

We were too disgusted to argue with him, and when he finally got out in accordance with his plan, the army officer was fain to make a kick at him. We couldn't tell whether he had bolted back down the road or was following on, but we got all ready for a hold up. Every one of us had a revolver in hand, and every one was on the watch, and yet it came about before we knew it. The horses were still at a walk when a man appeared at either door of the stage and covered us.

At the same moment a third stopped the leaders and covered the driver and passenger with a shotgun. It was simply a dead end, and we were not over ten seconds realizing it. We had just got the order to hand up our guns and step out when there was a pop! pop! from outside. The brigand at the right hand window cried out and fell. The one at the left hand window disappeared without a sound. There were three shots more, fainter than the first, and then all was quiet. We heard the little man saying:

"Gentlemen, it's all over, and you can come out." What had happened? There was a lead man on one side of the coach and a seriously wounded man on the other, and the third brigand had been driven away, probably hit by at least one bullet. All this had been done by the little man and his little gun, according to his plan, and what made it the worse for us he didn't appear to have done anything to feel proud over. We tried to square ourselves with him, but it couldn't be done. While he seemed to forgive us, we realized that his real private mission of five such champs must be, and we got away from him at the first stop—New York World.

A Terrible Mistake.

A celebrated German physician was once called upon to treat an aristocratic lady, the sole cause of whose complaint was high living and lack of exercise. Put it would never do to tell her so, so his medical advice ran thus:

"Arise at 5 o'clock, take a walk in the park for one hour, then drink a cup of tea, then walk another hour and take a cup of chocolate. Take breakfast at 8."

Her condition improved visibly, until one morning the carriage of the baroness was seen to approach the physician's residence at lightning speed. The patient dashed up to the doctor's office, and on his appearing on the scene she gasped out, "Oh, doctor, I took the chocolate first!"

"Then drive home as fast you can," ejaculated the astute disciple of Aesculap, rapidly writing a prescription, "and take this emetic. The tea must be undernearth." The grateful patient complied. She is still improving.—Chicago News.

Old Time Christmas Customs.

The custom of decorating the Christmas tree, long since introduced into this country, was of German origin and of great antiquity. In Pennsylvania, where many of the settlers are of German descent, Christmas eve is observed with many of the ceremonies practiced in the Fatherland. The Christmas tree branches forth in all its splendor, and the Christ child—according to the German legend—comes through the air on golden wings and catches the bough to produce in the night all manner of fruit, gift, sweetmeats, apples, nuts, etc., for the good children.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Oil of wintergreen and olive oil mixed in equal parts and applied externally will give almost instant relief from pain. On account of its pleasant odor this liniment is very agreeable to use.—New York Journal.

Complications of the Grip.

The most serious complication of the grip is acute bronchitis. This may appear early or late. The breathing becomes rapid and difficult. A spasmodic cough is almost constant. The expectorations are glairy and tenacious. With all this there is a peculiar prostration.

A more common complication is pneumonia, of which there are three varieties—bronchopneumonia, congestive pneumonia. Although these complications are dangerous, yet recovery is the rule under prompt and careful treatment.

A third complication of the grip is connected with the heart. If patients sit up they become faint. Some die of simple failure of the heart; others are saved from death only by careful attention on the part of the nurse. After the grip has passed off, a tendency to faintness and neuralgic pains may remain for weeks or months.

Another complication shows itself in a diarrhea; still another, affects the nervous system and is characterized by pains in the head or elsewhere, or by weakness in certain parts of the body, such as the hands or arms.

As to treatment, the doctor must decide in view of all the symptoms. But the patient should in every case take to his bed. To keep about is exceedingly dangerous, especially as exposing the patient to the above complications.—London Lancet.

Ravages of the Influenza.

"Emperor Francis Joseph is suffering from la grippe." "Mme. Modjeska is prostrated from a severe attack of influenza." "Justices Brown and Lamar, of the United States supreme court, are confined to their rooms with severe attacks of la grippe." "King William, of Wurtemberg, is seriously ill with influenza." "Seventy cadets at Annapolis are down with la grippe." "Alfred Cellier, the composer, died today from influenza." "Major McKinley is confined to his bed with the grip." "Elizabeth McLaw cut her throat today while crazed with la grippe." "Mme. Janauschek is confined to her room with influenza." "The hereditary Prince of Saxe-Meiningen, his wife and daughter, are suffering from influenza." "Sir William Arthur White, British ambassador to Turkey, died today from influenza." "Archduke Ernest died in Vienna of influenza." "The influenza is raging in the South Sea Islands of the Pacific," says a Melbourne dispatch. "At Windsor, N. Y., while suffering from la grippe, William Trost committed suicide." "Archduke Sigismund died in Vienna of influenza. He was a cousin of the Austrian kaiser." "Von Bulow, the great pianist, is seriously ill with influenza."

So run the telegraphic dispatches from all over the world.

An Anticongress Law Leader Dies.

Mr. Peter Alfred Taylor had so long retired from public life that the announcement of his death will recall to almost forgotten names. But in his three days he did splendid public service. He was an aggressive Radical when the weak and downtrodden had always in him an ardent and peppy friend.

As a member of the Anticongress League, a defender of Mazzini, a champion of the northern states during the American civil war, a determined opponent of the game laws, compulsory vaccination and grants to royalty, he did much to stir up public feeling on these subjects, and when, after a parliamentary career of twenty-two years, he retired, owing to ill health, the cause of reform lost an honest and outspoken champion.

Mr. Taylor was wealthy, but gave liberally, and he deserves to be held in grateful remembrance as a man who, singularly sincere, unselfish and of earnest purpose, did much for the public weal.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Did More Than Was Expected.

For hundreds of miles in the vicinity of Lake Austin, western Australia, there has been such a prolonged drought that crops of all kinds have suffered. A number of farmers combined to bear the expense of rain producing experiments and £600 was subscribed. Walter Marchison, a chemist, was engaged, and after tonight's experiment a series of explosions were followed in less than four hours by drenching showers.

The atmospheric conditions not only produced copious falls of rain, but had an utterly unexpected but equally desirable effect upon the rabbits. The thundering explosions killed tens of thousands of rabbits, which had for years preyed upon the crops.—Yankee Blade.

Electricity for Deafness.

The extent to which electricity is being used in legitimate medical practice is rapidly on the increase, and many of the new devices for applying it have distinct merit. A recently invented apparatus for the cure of deafness comprises a battery, a belt, an electrode supporter on the belt, and shaped to rest on the ear, and connections between the electrode and the battery. This provides a convenient and efficient mode of receiving the current, which can be applied in finely graduated strength.—Exchange.

Mining 300 Tons of Salt Daily.

The immense salt deposit on Carmen island, Gulf of California, is being developed by a company which recently bought it for $500,000. The output is about 300 tons daily. Much of it will be sent to Mazatlan, to be used in the mines of Cinacua for the reduction of refractory ores mined in that district.—New York Times.

As Gold-bug Harter of Ohio has been quoted as authority that the House of Representatives would not pass a free coinage bill at the present session, it will not be out of place to quote the opinion of Representative Bland, who has always been the unwavering friend of the metal, which has been debated by hostile legislation on the same subject. Mr. Bland says Mr. Harter has ascertained to his satisfaction that the Democratic party cannot be bulldozed by bankers and brokers nor the money powers, and that if a caucus was called he would be in a minority and though Harter called the caucus, and was the chief promoter of it, he abandoned it.

"Democrats," says Mr. Bland, "understand that we are not proposing to build a national platform here, but simply to carry out the pledges to our people. For fifty years the Democrats who came here came pledged to free silver. Instead of there being a cry against the Free Coinage bill, the changes are all the other way. The party sees now that if we do not pass a free silver bill, we will be stultifying ourselves and our record in the last Congress—that we will be acting the part of coward." The Republican party will charge that we are incompetent to pass legislation that we were sent here to pass; that they, the Republicans, had the courage to pass a bill giving free coinage to nearly all the American product. The Republicans would step in as the friends of silver and defeat Democratic members in enough Congressional districts to give the Republicans control of the House. The Democratic party in 1888 ignored the silver question in the interest of Mr. Cleveland, who was known to be hostile to silver, and whose administration had been against it. The Republican party, in their platform at Chicago, denounced Mr. Cleveland's administration for its hostility to silver. They courageously announced themselves as the friends of silver, and beat Mr. Cleveland in his own State, so that what the Democrats got by cowardice on this question was the loss of the Presidency and the loss of the House of Representatives. They were driven from power. If they again act the part of duplicity on this question and permit the Republicans again to step in front of them, they will lose not only the Presidency, but beyond all question the House of Representatives, which is the more important body. This House," said Mr. Bland in conclusion, decisively, and earnestly, "will pass a free coinage bill, and the country can rest assured of that."

The Silver Bill.
WASHINGTON, February 9.—The Silver bill as it will be reported, is substantially as follows:
Section 1 provides that the unit value in the United States shall be the standard silver dollar as now coined, 412½ grains of standard silver or the gold dollar 25.8 grains of standard gold, the standard gold and silver coins of the United States to be legal tender in payment of all debts. Any holder of gold or silver bullion of the value of $100 or more of standard fineness, shall be entitled to have the same struck into any authorized standard coins of the United States free of charge, at the mint of the United States, or may deposit the same at such mints and receive therefor legal tender coin notes of denominations of not less than $1 nor more than $1,000.
Section 2 provides for the retirement of the present gold and silver certificates and Treasury notes, and the substitution of coin notes for them.
Section 3 says coin notes at any time outstanding are not to be greater or less than the value of coin and bullion at coming value held in the Treasury, said notes to be redeemed in coin on demand.
Section 5 provides for the repeal of the present law.
Section 6 provides that as soon as France shall reopen her mints to the free and unrestricted coinage of silver at her present ratio, 15½ to 1, it shall be the duty of the President of the United States to make a public proclamation of that fact, whereupon said ratio is to be the legal ratio of the United States and thereafter the standard silver dollar shall consist of 400 grains of standard silver and the dollars outstanding shall be redeemed at that weight.

Hale & Norcross Suit.
SAN FRANCISCO, February 9.—In the Hale & Norcross mining suit to-day, when Court was opened, Judge Hubbard announced that he would allow the evidence of Evan Williams, Superintendent of the Nevada Mill, to be introduced as against the Nevada Mill and Mining Company, but not against Hayward and Hobart. Attorney Baggett announced the case closed for the plaintiff. Attorney Wood then made a motion for non-suit on general grounds of insufficient evidence. He contended that the charges of conspiracy and fraud were not proved. Attorney Baggett answered that, in his opinion, plaintiff had made out a prima facie case. Judge Hubbard, in passing upon the motion, said there was no doubt in his mind that the stockholders of the Hale & Norcross had been defrauded of a large amount of money and, while it was not absolutely shown that Hayward and Hobart were in the conspiracy, there was sufficient evidence to convince him that conspiracy really existed. He, therefore, denied non-suit. The defense will introduce testimony to-day.

DEATH OF A NOTED FINANCIER.
John J. Knox, who was Controller of the Currency under President Grant, died in New York City yesterday of pneumonia. He was the reputed author of the Act of February 12, 1873, which demonetized silver by reducing its legal tender power to five dollars and closing the mints against its coinage for the first time in the history of the country. He issued a pamphlet last year which purported to give the history of the demonetization Act, and which showed that it had been before Congress for three years. He stated that the bill first made its appearance in the Senate, in 1870, having been reported from the Finance Committee by Senator Sherman. It passed the Senate with several amendments, but it was not reported to the House before Congress expired. It next made its appearance in the House as a new bill, and finally passed both Houses and was approved by President Grant, February 12, 1873.

Mr. Knox had the reputation of being one of the greatest financiers in the country, and he crossed swords with Senator Stewart once or twice on the silver question.

Young Klein's Remains.
PLACERVILLE, February 9.—The remains of young Klein, one of the young men who perished in the mountains in December last, were brought to Placerville to-day by William Watson and William Ryhard. The body, which was found two miles this side of Strawberry Valley, was horribly mutilated by wolves and coyotes. Both feet were missing and the flesh from the limbs and face was entirely eaten away. The remains, notwithstanding their almost unrecognizable condition, were positively identified by Jake Klein of Carson as those of his son. The reward of $200 for the recovery of the body was immediately paid over to Watson and Ryhard by the father, who will take the remains to Oakland for burial. Owing to the great depth of snow in the mountains the finders to this city, a distance of 40 miles.

The British Parliament reassembled yesterday. The Queen's speech expressed gratitude for the sympathy received from the people in her recent bereavement, and stated that an agreement had been made with the United States for defining the method of settling the seal fisheries dispute. Among other things which Parliament is asked to pass upon will be a proposal for applying to Ireland the general principles of the local government already adopted in Great Britain.

The petition of Harley S. Morse and others of Denver, Colorado, for a mandamus, to compel the Secretary of the Treasury to coin into silver dollars the silver brick tendered the mint for that purpose, was denied yesterday in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. We have yet to hear from the Judiciary Committee of the Senate on Senator Stewart's resolution on that subject.

The People's party of Sacramento in convention assembled, adopted resolutions severing forever the relations between its members and the Republican or Democratic party, and pledging support to the new organization. Many prominent citizens of Sacramento are said to be identified with the new movement.

Gazette Metaphor.—"But as the Journal is a fair sample of Democratic principles (?) we can't blame it for straddling the Harter letter and pulling vigorously for the shore, let the chips fall where they may."

First Adjournment Resolution.
WASHINGTON, February 9.—Bushnell of Wisconsin offered the first adjournment resolution of the session in the House to-day. It provided for the adjournment of the first session on Tuesday, May 31. Referred to the Committee on Rules.

To be Investigated.
WASHINGTON, February 9.—The House Committee on Rules decided to-day that there should be an investigation made into the management of the pension office.

Senate Proceedings.
WASHINGTON, February 9.—Adverse reports were made by the Finance Committee on the following bills for free coinage of gold and silver bullion.
Stewart—Increasing the circulating medium by issuing treasury notes based on gold and silver coin and bullion.
Puffer—For the retirement of National Bank notes, the free coinage of silver and the promotion of international free coinage of silver.
Plumb—Making certain issues of money full legal tender in payment of all debts.
Without disposing of the West Virginia direct tax resolution, a short executive session was held, and then, on motion of Harris, the business of the Senate was suspended, and eulogies were heard on Leonidas C. Houck, late Representative from Tennessee.
Senate adjourned.

House Proceedings.
WASHINGTON, February 9.—The House went into Committee of the Whole on the military academy bill. The bill appropriated $466,000. Wheeler of Alabama said: "The necessity for an increase was certain permanent improvements." Dockery of Missouri said: "Every man on the Democratic side had joined in the Chair's denunciation of the appropriations made by the Billion Dollar Congress, and yet the first appropriation bill to come from the Democratic Committee carried an increase over a similar bill passed by the Fifty-first Congress." He appealed to the Democrats to strike from the pending bill every provision not absolutely essential. After further debate the committee rose and the House adjourned.

The Rain Makers.
HURON, Cal., February 9.—E. F. Murphy of the International Artificial Rain Company of Kansas and A. Borders of the firm of Linder & Borders of Talara, have made a contract with the farmers of Huron and vicinity for rain for the season's crop on a basis of six sacks to the acre for 60,000 acres. Twenty thousand acres were subscribed for to-day.

Effect of Newberry's Bill Cutting off Pensions.
WASHINGTON, February 9.—The bill introduced by Representative Newberry of Illinois, cutting off pensions to foreigners and non-residents of the United States, is becoming a subject of great international interest. Dispatches state that in one province of Canada alone over 1,300 people will be affected by the proposed legislation, and 'General Newberry himself estimates the foreign beneficiaries of the pension laws to aggregate at least 15,000. There are several thousand such pensioners living in the kingdom of Wurtemberg, Germany, and our Minister to Turkey says they are scattered all over Eastern Asia and Western Europe. We know many are living in Great Britain and Canada.

Free Coinage.
WASHINGTON, February 9.—The Bland free coinage bill is to be ordered favorably reported by the Committee on Coinage, Weights and Measures to-morrow. This was formally decided upon by the free coinage members of the Committee, and as a result of a series of conferences of free coinage men closed to-day. It has been further determined that a speedy consideration will be forced in the House. The free coinage men to-night claim that of the 332 members of the House, they will have 200 votes in favor of the bill. Ten or eleven of these, they say, will be Republicans and the remainder Democrats. Of the opponents to free coinage about forty will come from the Democratic side.

A Jury with Hard Sense.
From a town almost near enough to Philadelphia to be called a suburb comes a story of unique dispensation of justice by a jury from around about the vicinity. The case was one in which the prosecution was brought by a young woman against a young man. Despite the eloquent pleading of the lawyer for the fair one, the jury rendered a verdict of acquittal, and then proceeded to assess the defendant a fourth of the costs, the prosecutrix a fourth, the constable who arrested the prisoner a fourth, and the justice of the peace who sent the case to court a fourth. The judge remarked that that wasn't much of a jury for law, but it was strong in the way of common sense.—Philadelphia Record

The Phonograph and the Dumb.
Recent test in the use of the phonograph in the deaf and dumb institute at Indianapolis show that it is useful in concentrating sound upon the drum of the ear, so that many pupils otherwise deaf can hear it. It is thought by the superintendent that he can by this means soon teach the use of their voices to many mutes whose inability to speak is due to the fact that they have never heard speech.—Exchange.

Dom Pedro's Knight.
Dom Pedro was a Knight of the Garter, having been invested by the queen during his visit to Europe in 1871. His death did not create a vacancy in the order, as, like other royal personages, he was an extra knight. It is probable that the Comte d'Eu will come to England in a few weeks in order that he may personally deliver up his father-in-law's insignia to the queen.—London World.

Boarding Lunatics Out.
An experiment is about to be tried in France where 100 lunatics will shortly be sent to the Department of the Cher and placed in the houses of farmers and other people who are willing to take care of them.—Galignani Messenger.

WHAT IS SCROFULA
It is that impurity in the blood, which, accumulating in the glands of the neck, produces unsightly lumps or swellings, which causes painful running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; which develops ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or the many other manifestations usually ascribed to "humors;" which, fastening upon the lungs, causes consumption and death. Being the most ancient, it is the most general of all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it.

How Can IT BE CURED
By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the remarkable cures it has accomplished, often when other medicines have failed, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. Some of these cures are really wonderful. If you suffer from scrofula, be sure to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. "My daughter Mary was afflicted with scrofula, a sore neck from the time she was 22 months old till she became six years of age. Lumps formed in her neck, and one of them after growing to the size of a pigeon's egg, became a running sore for over three years. We gave her Hood's Sarsaparilla, when the lump and all indications of scrofula entirely disappeared, and now she seems to be a healthy child." J. S. CARLISLE, Naughton, N. J.

He was not expected to live at last accounts.

NEVADA HISTORY.

Troubles Growing Out of the Boundary Line—The War Between Honey Lake Valley and Plumas County.

Joe Goodwin in the San Francisco Chronicle.

In the organic act creating the Territory of Nevada the western boundary was left undefined, with a strong recommendation to the State of California to cede to the Territory whatever rights it might have on the eastern slope of the Sierra Nevada and establish the summit of that range as the boundary line. Commissioners were sent to California to lay the matter before the Governor and Legislature. So confident were the Territorial authorities that their request, backed as it was by the earnest recommendation of Congress, would be granted, that in fixing the lines of the counties and judicial districts they included everything east of the summit. The only settlement of any importance affected by this proceeding was Honey Lake Valley. That was included in, and in fact constituted the greater part of Roop county. Officers were elected, Courts organized and the whole machinery of a county government was soon in active operation.

THE HONEY LAKE WAR.

Everything went swimmingly until the Spring of 1863, when a Deputy Sheriff from Plumas county, Cal., within whose bailiwick Honey Lake Valley was assumed to be, came over the mountains to serve a process. The Honey Lakers were the most loyal of Nevadans. Instead of acknowledging the alien's authority they resisted and imprisoned the invader. When they deemed he had had a sufficient taste of their hospitality to fully appreciate it they released him, and he returned to Quincy, his county seat, to fire the Plumas heart by the story of the outrage committed upon him. The Sheriff himself, with a number of deputies, departed at once for the scene of rebellion. He immediately arrested most of the Roop county officials, all of whom had been more or less concerned in the ill-treatment accorded his deputy, and started back over the mountains with them. The party had not gone far, however, before a body of Honey Lakers, headed by the venerable Isaac Roop, overtook and rescued the prisoners.

AN ARMY OF INVASION.

The Sheriff returned to Quincy with blood in his eye and raised a force of 180 men, which, fully armed and equipped, was marched over to Susanville, the seat of the war. The army of invasion arrived at that place late in the afternoon of Saturday, February 14th, 1863. Upon the approach of the hostile forces the Honey Lakers hurriedly gathered the parties threatened with arrest into a log house, and, while guarding it with such strength as they could hastily collect, sent couriers throughout the whole valley to give the alarm. Before morning three hundred hardy warriors had gathered in response to the call, every one of whom was armed with a rifle and meant business.

The Sheriff with his force took possession of a barn just opposite the log house where the soldiers were guarding their county officials. Thinking to strengthen his position by fortifying it with some timbers lying close by, he ordered his men to move them in front of the barn. The opposing leader forbade them to touch the timbers, but they proceeded to obey the first command. Thereupon the Honey Lakers opened fire. The battle lasted four hours, but fortunately both parties were so well sheltered that the casualties were not very serious. Eight of the Sheriff's posse and one or two settlers were wounded, but none of them fatally. The Californians finally agreed to surrender on condition that they be allowed to return home with their arms, terms which the magnanimous Honey Lakers readily granted.

That ended the war. Notwithstanding their valiant resistance and their signal victory in the only pitched battle, the Honey Lakers were eventually forced to submit to the yoke of the hated enemy. California refused to entertain the thought of feeding a single inch of ground. In my humble opinion she acted very sagaciously. It does not lie in her power to do a more decent thing, even now, than to give to Nevada the territory in question as a poor return for the hundreds of millions of treasure received from her.

DRAMATIC EVENT OF THE SEASON.

The Carson Dramatic Club to Present "Nick of the Woods" for the Lyceum.

The fame of the Carson Dramatic Club for the genuine talent of its members and the excellence of their performances has long been well known in Reno, but although the Club has filled several successful engagements in Virginia City, it has never as yet appeared in Reno. The Reno Lyceum management have secured them for a performance, and the dramatic treat of the season may be expected. They will appear in the thrilling border drama "Nick of the Woods" at McKissick's Opera House Wednesday evening, February 17th, and should be received with one of the largest houses that has ever greeted a theatrical combination here. The Club has expended over $500 in scenery, costumes, etc., and are prepared to make a good impression. An interesting feature will be the introduction of twelve Washoe braves in a stake dance. Reno should give the Club a rousing house.

Will Mr. Fulton Explain?

EDITOR JOURNAL:—Mr. R. L. Fulton appears to be taking a great interest in the proposition to cede the public lands to the State. Will Mr. Fulton please explain the motive for his apparent anxiety in the matter? He has not heretofore had the reputation of being a public philanthropist and he has on several occasions been heard to say that he is not working particularly for his health. Why does he then send petitions to various places throughout the State in the name of the "Board of Trade," as I am told, and importune people to sign those petitions to have the public lands ceded to Nevada? LAND HOLDERS.

THE SECRET BALLOT.

Thirty-Three of The Forty-Four States Have Adopted Some Form of It.

Enraged Sentinel

This country has at last reached the point where the only absolutely free ballot is the secret ballot; and its degree of freedom is exactly in proportion to its degree of secrecy. In the early days of the republic, when the voters were comparatively few and the influences brought to bear upon them were principally personal or argumentative, the evils of the open ballot, or viva voce vote, were comparatively few. But in these days, when politics has become a regular business, when the voter is subjected to methods of coercion which were unknown to the fathers, a secret, an absolute prerequisite has become an indispensable prerequisite to an honest and genuine expression of opinion by the voter.

This country has been slow to recognize this fact. In most of the States there has been for some time a pretense of a secret ballot, but it has, until within the last few years, we may say within the last two years, been a pretense. In fact, it is only within the last year that one of them, Kentucky, has abolished the old practice of having the voter stand up at the polling place and call out viva voce to the election officers the names of the candidates for whom he desires to vote, while those officers recorded his vote in the poll book.

But the reform in the system of obtaining the expression of the suffragans has extended with a wonderful rapidity, once that it was started, until now thirty-three of the forty-four States have some modified form of what is known as the "Australian system." The main feature of this system is that it takes away from the party organizations or individual candidates the rights to furnish the tickets which are voted at the election and requires the State to furnish them.

As a general rule the names of all the candidates are printed on one ticket and the voter, after receiving such a ticket from an election officer, goes into a closet by himself and there indicates by prescribed marks upon the ballot the names of the men for whom he wishes to vote, returns to the place where the box is and deposits his ballot, without the possibility of anyone knowing or ascertaining how he voted.

This is the perfection of the secret ballot. It absolutely protects the voter from intimidation, for he can vote exactly as he pleases and the would-be intimidator cannot know, or even guess, how the man has voted. And, while it does not fully prevent bribery, it in a large measure checks it. The briber cannot know whether the bribee has "delivered the goods," and as such bribes are generally paid for "on delivery" he will have to rely upon the word of a man whom he knows to be a scoundrel as the warrant for the payment of the money. And no body knows better than the political bribe-giver that the word of a man who will sell his vote is absolutely worthless.

Another good feature of the Australian law is its prohibition against "heelers" and "strikers" swarming around the polls and interfering with the voters and the officers of election. Under the operation of this "dummy" becomes a thing of the past; there is no crowd of thugs, toughs and "shoulder-bitters" surrounding the box for the voter to force his way through, hustling the determined and intimidating the timid. No man is allowed around the polls except to vote, and that he must do at once and go away.

The rapidity with which the movement has spread is something wonderful. In less than five years, three-quarters of the States have adopted laws modeled upon the Australian system, and indications all point to the same action by the other quarter as fast as their Legislatures meet.

A SHOOTING SCRAPE.

Owen Lytle Takes a Shot at Rattler Bill.

Yesterday morning Owen Lytle, the keeper of the 5-cent beer dive opposite the First National Bank, became involved in a quarrel with William Reynolds, alias Rattler Bill, and took a shot at him with his revolver, the ball from which passed through his clothes and in some unaccountable way lodged in his boot. Lytle was arrested for assault with a deadly weapon and looked up. He will have an examination before Judge Linn at 10 o'clock to-day. Lytle, about six weeks ago, it will be remembered, fired a couple of shots at a Spaniard but fortunately missed him. He seems to be desirous of getting the reputation of being a bad man.

You may bridle the appetite but you cannot bribe the liver to do its work well. You must be honest with it, help it along a little now and then with a dose of Simmons Liver Regulator. The liver becomes sluggish sometimes and needs some stimulation to keep off those attacks of indigestion and biliousness. A good active liver promotes digestion and prevents malaria.

The Palace Hotel, which is well and favorably known to every old Nevada, is being conducted as usual by that veteran landlord, Al White, who spares neither pains nor purse to provide for the comfort and convenience of guests.

SAN FRANCISCO MEAT MARKET.

What the "Live Stock and Butchers' Gazette" Says of It.

"With only a moderate demand, beef has gone up a full half cent during the week. Several slaughterers sold prime heavy steers at 7c, and the general run was 6 to 6½c. Good heifers and choice barren cows also brought 6½c. Some slaughterers are killing their usual number, others are running light and two or three are not killing at all, having for the time no cattle and cannot buy at a price that will leave a profit.

"Some slaughterers say the Nevada cattle-men have gone crazy, and instead of meeting the market here will hold their cattle until March and then rush them in and break prices.

"The scarcity of shrimps and third rate beef has had the effect of raising the prices of such far above the ratio with prime, or, as one slaughterer said, 4c beef is selling at 5½c.

"Mutton has made no further advance and only sells in very moderate lots. One or two large slaughterers have no sheep and others very few. The country is being scourged for fat sheep. J. G. Johnson & Co. have a band on the way from New Mexico; when they arrive they will resume slaughtering. Draper, it is also said, is bringing sheep from New Mexico. Good 160 to 180 pound range calves bring 8c readily and it must be something very poor that does not bring over 6c. Good heavy calves, 250 to 300 pounds, sell at 7c up."

"BLACK DIAMONDS."

The Play at the Opera House Last Evening.

A fairly good house was in attendance last evening, to witness the production of the play of "Black Diamonds," by the Beebe-Barbour Company. The play is a sensational drama with plenty of blood and thunder in it, yet not overstepping far enough the bounds of nature to make it uninteresting. The scene is laid in a Pennsylvania coal mine, during the Molly McGuire troubles.

The character of Mark O'Dare, a sort of diamond in the rough, was ably rendered by Edward Barbour, who in the contrast in this character from that of Attorney Foxglove, which he presented the evening previous, evinces the possession of considerable versatility. W. W. Craig, as Banty Bob, kept the house in a roar and increased the already favorable impression of his talents.

Miss Fannie Mathias and Miss Elna Lytton, as Diana Dyobink, and Pauline Courtwright, respectively, were appreciated, while Little Gracie Beebe, was warmly received.

The company will present "Shadows of the Homestead," this evening.

The World Enriched.

The facilities of the present day for the production of everything that will conduce to the material welfare and comfort of mankind are almost unlimited and when Syrup of Figs was first produced the world was enriched with the only perfect laxative known, as it is the only remedy which is truly pleasing and refreshing to the taste and prompt and effectual to cleanse the system gently in the Spring time or, in fact, at any time and the better it is known the more popular it becomes.

The Irving Dramatic Club will appear in that side-splitting, button-busting farce the "Persecuted Dutchman," followed by the comedy "To Oblige Benson," at McKissick's Opera House, Thursday evening, the 18th instant, for the benefit of the Congregational Church building. The music will be by Fredrick's orchestra, which is a guarantee of its excellence.

Sam Davis came up from the Bay yesterday morning and passed through for the Capital. His handsome countenance graced a recent issue of the Wasp, yet there seemed to be no appreciable diminution in the quality of his gall, as the first word he was heard to utter was to request R. B. Casey to run up town and get him a tomato.

The White Pine Court House has been paid for, and there is great rejoicing at Ely, the county seat. The News says when the last bond was taken up the stars and stripes were raised on the building and greeted with a hearty hurrah. For the first time in its history White Pine county now has a Court House and other county buildings free from debt.

Andrew Jackson's carriage, made out of timber from the old war-ship Ironsides, Daniel Webster's carriage, and one that belonged to Abraham Lincoln, will be shown at the World's Fair.

"German Syrup"

G. Gloger, Druggist, Watertown, Wis. This is the opinion of a man who keeps a drug store, sells all medicines, comes in direct contact with the patients and their families, and knows better than anyone else how remedies sell, and what true merit they have. He hears of all the failures and successes, and can therefore judge: "I know of no medicine for Coughs, Sore Throat, or Hoarseness that had done such effective work in my family as Boschee's German Syrup. Last winter a lady called Hoarseness, at my store, who was suffering from a very severe cold. She could hardly talk, and I told her about German Syrup and that a few doses would give relief; but she had no confidence in patent medicines. I told her to take a bottle, and if the results were not satisfactory I would make no charge for it. A few days after she called and paid for it, saying that she would never be without it in future as a few doses had given her relief."

DISTRICT COURT SUMMONS.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, in and for Washoe County. The State of Nevada, ss. to P. M. Murray, ss. You are hereby required to appear in an action commenced against you as defendant by P. M. Murray, ss. in the District Court of the State of Nevada, in and for Washoe County, and answer the complaint therein, with the service of this summons, on or before the day of service, if served in said county, or within said district, and in all other cases forty days, or judgment by default will be taken against you according to the prayer of said complaint. The action is brought to recover a decree of the Court dissolving the bonds of matrimony now existing between P. M. Murray, plaintiff, and Edith Murray, defendant, and for a decree awarding the care, custody and control of said child, the issue of said marriage, to plaintiff, upon the grounds:

First—That you on or about the day of April, A. D. 1900, willfully and without cause, deserted and abandoned plaintiff, and ever since said time have lived separate and apart from her without any cause or reason, and against her consent, and Second—That for more than one year immediately prior to the commencement of this action you have failed, refused and neglected to provide for plaintiff the common necessities of life, and which said neglect, failure and refusal was not occasioned by ill health or other cause, and which you could not avoid by ordinary industry, you having the ability to furnish said common necessities of life for plaintiff.

All of which will more fully appear from the complaint which is on file in the office of the Clerk of said Court at Reno, in said County, and to which you are especially referred. And you are further notified that if you fail to appear and answer said complaint, the said plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded. In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of said Court at Reno, this 24th day of January, A. D. 1902. J. L. KNOTT, Deputy Clerk of the District Court of the State of Nevada, in and for Washoe County.

THE NIGHT RIDE.

Tonight we rode beneath a moon That made the moonlight pale; And our horses' feet kept well the tune, And our pulses did not fail. The moon shone clear, the hour frost fell, The world slept, as it seemed, Sleep held the night, but we rode well, And as we rode we dreamed. We dreamed of ghostly horse and hound, The flight at dead of night; The more the fearful thoughts we found The more was our delight. And when we heard the white owl cry And hoot with mournful tone, We thought to see dead men go by, And pressed our horses on. The merrier then our riding song Upon the homeward road, Oh, whether the way be short or long Is all to the rider's mood. And still our pulses kept the tale, Our gallop kept the tune, As round and over hill and vale We rode beneath the moon. —Ernest Rhys in Youth's Companion.

Juvenile Precocity. New York is a great city. During the run of a pantomime I sat one matinee down in front. One of the most conspicuous characters in the piece, which was "Cinderella," was a little chap about as large as a five-year-old baby, dressed in Hungarian uniform and acting as page to the prince of the fairy tale. And very clever he was too. That same evening I saw something in the two little boys who bring my family laundry to remind me of the small page and the prince's footman.

On inquiry I found they were the same. The small page has been on the stage three or four years and is, in his way, an old timer at nine years. He named over his repertoire as he played on the floor with the baby with the theatrical gamut. These two bright little fellows live with my laundress. Their father is an attaché of an up town theater and they make their own living as professionals. —New York Herald.

Duration of Life Among Birds.

The distinguished German biologist, Weismann, has pointed out that there is less exact knowledge on the subject of duration of life among birds than might be expected, considering how many in number are the ornithologists and the ornithological societies. Small singing birds live from eight to eighteen years. Ravens have lived for almost 100 years in captivity, and parrots longer than that. Fowls live ten to twenty years (and are then sold as spring chickens to young housekeepers). The wild goose lives upward of 100 years, and swans are said to have attained the age of 300. The long life of birds has been interpreted as compensation for their feeble fertility and for the great mortality of their young. Obviously, as Weismann observes, such birds must reach a great age, or they would long ago have been exterminated. —London Speaker

Dainty Her Tastes.

The female wasp spends the winter in a torpid condition, and when spring arrives she hunts up some sort of sheltered spot appropriate for a nest. Having selected the retreat she proceeds to lay within it the foundation of a home. For this object earth will not serve her turn. The substance of which the walls and chambers of the house are to be composed must be none other than the finest paper, made of wood pulp, mixed with a sort of sizing, worked to a paste and finely spread in sheets. —Naturalist.

How Thread is Made.

To make a spool of thread the very best sea island cotton is used. This is taken in the raw state and torn to pieces by a machine called a breaker. It is then freed from its impurities by several other machines, after which it is taken up by a "slipper" and twisted into soft yarn. Several strands of this are twisted into one fine thread; three of these are then twisted together, making the six-cord thread, which, after being bleached, is ready to sell. —Philadelphia Ledger.

Rope in Belgium.

Hemp or aloes ropes, according to an official report to the French government, are almost exclusively used for all depths of shafts in Belgium. The makers guarantee the ropes to last one and a half to two and a half years, and should they fail earlier a twelfth to a twenty-fourth of their cost is deducted for every month short of their stipulated duration.

A Lizard with Three Eyes.

Virginia, Maryland and North Carolina each have two species of lizard provided with three eyes. If you ask a native of either of the states mentioned about the three eyed lizard he will laugh at you; that is, unless he is a naturalist and has given the subject some study. Scientists claim that they are quite common. —St. Louis Republic.

DR. G. W. WILLIAMS, Late Queen's Hospital, London, England, and Medical Advisor to the Duke of Westminster.

Well Seventy-five Feet and Lived. When the Owl train on the West Penn railroad left Blairsville Monday evening his passenger one Alfred Anderson, who lives near Social Hall bridge, about two and a half miles west of town. When nearing the flag station at the bridge Mr. Anderson arose from his seat, went to the platform of the car and stepped off before the train had come to a stop. The rear car had not fully cleared the bridge, and when Anderson landed from the moving train he could not recover from the impact given him and went over into the Cone-nough river below, dropping fully seventy feet.

Fortunately for him the river at this point is deep, there being about fifteen feet of water. The trainmen and passengers were horrified. Conductor McNulty and brakemen Kelley and McNulty went back to look for him. Brakeman Charley Beatty held his lantern aloft and called into the darkness below, not expecting to receive an answer. To the surprise of everybody present, Anderson answered that he would be all right just as soon as he could swim out. He reached the shore and scrambled up the bank, none the worse except for a slight scratch on one of his wrists. —Indiana Gazette.

A Novel Mesmeric Trial.

Once more the Wolverhampton magistrates have adjourned the hearing of the case against Harry Moores, alias "Dr. Vint, the mesmerist. Moores, alias an exhibition in that town of his alleged powers of hypnotizing, but, according to the charge of the town clerk, who is conducting the prosecution, the whole business was a fraud concocted between the accused and certain confederates. One of the hypnotists' subjects deposed that he went every night and received payment for his performances. A journalist who was present deposed that he saw hypnotized persons lying on the floor who "winked at each other," and a police constable stated that when he proposed to stick a pin into one of these supposed unconscious persons "to see if he was really in a mesmeric sleep," the operator threatened "to have him locked up."

On the other hand, Dr. Vint's legal adviser proposed, by way of a practical test of his client's powers, to give an exhibition in court with one who had been mesmerized before. When this was declined he offered then and there to mesmerize the magistrate's clerk—a proposal which, though it caused laughter, appears to have been deemed equally unacceptable. The case is exciting much interest in the town on account of its novelty. The town clerk himself has observed that he did not know whether there had ever been a similar case in a court of justice, but Wolverhampton, he added, is noted for legal precedents. —London News.

The Ice Men.

The wholesale dealers in ice are again worried, as they have been off and on for the past ten years. Their experience of two years ago has taught them that if ice does not make in the Hudson by the 1st of January it is not likely to make at all during the season. The agents of these companies are scouring the entire country to the far north of New York and New England and have contracted for ice privileges on Stratton, Lake Champlain and Lake George, and have been compelled to pay pretty stiff prices therefor.

Meanwhile the making of artificial ice flourishes, and at the great hotels and offices of the railroad companies, which are beginning to use it, it is giving greater satisfaction than natural ice partly because there is less wastage partly because it comes in blocks of a certain weight and partly because it is made of distilled water. Some of the natural ice dealers are of the opinion that it will ultimately supplant natural ice harvesting, and it is safe to say that the climatic change toward mildness of season is to be regarded as permanent. —New York Cor. Philadelphia Press.

Methods of London Thieves.

At the next assizes in London the trial of a new kind of thieves promises to be interesting. Their method was to visit unoccupied houses in the outskirts of the city in the daytime. They drove up in an elegant carriage, and when they found nobody at home the house was marked. In the night they came in a wagon, broke into the house and carried off their booty. When it turned out that they were mistaken and that parties were in the house they simply offered to sell photographs and albums. One of the members rode a bicycle and took his notes of the houses that were good for robbing. Mr. and Mrs. Clarke were the leaders of the gang. They lived in one of the suburbs, were highly respected by all their neighbors and were extensively invited to tea parties, dinners, etc. —London Letter.
